AMERICAN ENVOY TO LONDON HITS AT 'WAR MAKERS'

Davis Ridicules Efforts To Embroil America And Britain

HARVEY MAY GET JOB

Arch Enemy Of Wilson Discussed For London Diplomatic Post

(Reuter's Service)

London, Feb. 28.—In the course of a valedictory address at a Pilgrims' banquet tonight, Mr. John W. Davis, the retiring American Ambassador in London, ridiculed the reports circulated by alarmists regarding possible trouble between Great Britain and America. Neither country, he said, had any legitimate aims which co-operation with the other would not promote, and neither country was likely to sacrifice its traditional willingness to throw its difficulties in the scales of justice for the verdict of impartial minds. Mr. Davis admitted, however, the existence of enemies who would undermine the friendship between Great Britain and America, but, he added, "we should forestall them in the open."

London, March 1.—The Prince of Wales was present at the farewell banquet to the retiring American Ambassador, Mr. John W. Davis, and delivered a speech in which he paid a tribute to the services rendered by the guest of the evening, declaring: "He has been more than an Ambassador; in the relations between America and Great Britain he has been a true friend."

The cable despatches from London and Washington have not mentioned probable diplomatic appointments under the Harding administration and late newspapers from America quote the president-elect's closest friends as saying that as yet no consideration had been given to these nominations. The report is current in Washington, however, that Col. George Harvey, editor of Harvey's Weekly, will be named to succeed Mr. Davis at the Court of St. James.

Col. Harvey formerly was of the Democratic faith and was known at one time as the "discoverer" of Woodrow Wilson. When he was making his first race for the presidency, however, Mr. Wilson wrote a letter in which he repudiated Harvey's support, giving as his reason the fact that Harvey was associated with certain Wall street individuals with whom Wilson did not care to be identified.

From that day Harvey became an unrelenting enemy of President Wilson, attacking his policies constantly in his magazine, and leading, in a way, the terrific onslaughts that were made on the president as the result of his work at Paris.

Earl Haig Opens Conference Of Ex-Service Men

(Reuter's Service)

Cape Town, Feb. 28.—The first Empire Conference of ex-Service Men, to attend which Earl Haig travelled to South Africa, was opened here today, General Smuts, in an eloquent speech, declared that the object of the conference was to perpetuate the war-time spirit of comradeship, and also to promote the welfare of ex-service men. He hoped that the conference would help to advise the governments on this matter, as it was the true and honest desire of all the Empire governments and peoples to do their utmost to meet cases of hardship.

Earl Haig, who met with an enthusiastic reception, dwelt on the Empire spirit which linked together the British troops from all parts of the world during the war. This meeting, he said, was the first open acknowledgment of the bond forged by common risks, hardships and sacrifices and the first step in the formation of an Empire Legion to bind all ex-service men.

A letter conveying the good wishes of His Majesty, the King, was then read.

It appears that the Michigan Central train had started across this intersection when it was struck by the New York Central train.

Most of those killed were in the two coaches demolished by the New York Central locomotive. Both of the enginemen of the New York Central train were killed. The wreck was the largest in recent years.

Churchill Speech Excites Egytians

(Reuter's Service)

London, Feb. 28.—There has been considerable agitation in Egypt over the summary of Mr. Churchill's speech at the banquet given to Lord Reading prior to his departure for India, in which the statement was attributed to the Colonial Secretary that Egypt was part of the British Empire.

It seems that what Mr. Churchill really said was that the principle of common consultation among the members of the British Empire would be found to have its usefulness in relation to countries and nations as far apart and as widely different as Ireland and Egypt; while, after referring to Sir H. Campbell-Bannerman's solution of the difficulties in South Africa, he expressed confidence that in a few years Great Britain's present difficulties would be greatly diminished, and that the nations, now a reproach and stumbling-block to the supreme cause that the English-speaking union has at heart, might be found managing Great Britain's affairs within the elastic circle of the British Empire.

6 SINN FEINERS SHOT AT CORK FOR PARTS IN REVOLT

Condemned Men Executed In Pairs—News Causes Sensation

Civilians, In Revenge, Attack Unarmed Soldiers, Killing Five, Wounding Others

(Reuter's Service)

The news of their execution caused a sensation in Dublin, where great military activity prevailed. The National University was occupied by troops, who searched the students. Many offices in Sackville Street were also searched.

London, Mar. 1.—Evidently in revenge for the execution at Cork yesterday of six Sinn Feiners, condemned for participation in an ambush and illegally possessing arms, armed civilians attacked a number of unarmed soldiers at Cork yesterday evening. It is officially reportel that 5 were killed and eleven wounded.

KOREANS HERE OBSERVE THIRD ANNIVERSARY

Shanghai Patriots Celebrate Birthday Of Independence Declaration

The third anniversary of the declaration of Korean Independence was celebrated at the Olympic Theater yesterday. Over 800 were present. The program consisted of a speech by the provisional president, Mr. Li, another by the Minister of War, Mr. Lu, who has just returned from the United States and the singing of the national authem and an exhibition of Chinese gymnastics.

The President's speech dwelled on the need of optism among the Koreans in their fight for liberty. He said although a number of his fellow countrymen have been sacrificed for his country, they died for a principle and "they were happy even if they were dead."

500 Billion Gold Marks Was All Kaiser Wanted

(Special Cable)

Paris, March 1.—The Paris newspapers are recalling, in connection with the indemnity discussions, that in 1917 the Kaiser predicted that, in the event of a German victory, the Allies would be forced to pay an indemnity of five hundred billion gold marks, a good part of which was to constitute a gift to the Kaiser and his lords.

The newspapers remind their readers that the German parliament received this suggestion from the Kaiser with great enthusiasm, and ask them to remember that, if the Germans had won, this vast sum undoubtedly would have been exacted at the point of the bayonet.

In this connection it may be remarked that the Allied reparation experts propose to investigate the amounts that the Germans are paying to the ex-Kaiser at present.

University Gets Chinese Art Work

(Reuter's Service)

Philadelphia, Feb. 10 (By mail).—Two sculptured Chinese horses, considered the finest specimens of this Chinese art extant and among the finest in the world, have come into the possession of the University of Pennsylvania Museum as a gift from Mr. Eldredge R. Johnson, of Philadelphia.

The specimens are two out of six which embellished the tomb of Emperor T'ang T'ai Tsung, and were smuggled out of the Republic a few years ago. According to the museum authorities, China has agreed that they shall remain in this country while jealously guarding the others.

The horses are slightly mutilated, but still show the marvellous skill of the sculptor.

Begins Damage Suit Following Dismissal From Local Concern

Hearing Begun In British Court Of Claim Against A. E. S. Thompson

A claim for Tls. 9,770 and £622 brought against Mr. A. E. S. Thompson by Mr. H. E. S. Pickering, who alleged wrongful dismissal, was heard yesterday by Judge Skinner Turner in the British Supreme Court.

The statement of claim alleges that the plaintiff was engaged on a five-year contract in May, 1920 and that he was dismissed in December, 1920. The amount claimed is on salary and the expense of a stipulated trip to England. Defendant in his statement sets forth that he is bringing the sum of Tls. 450, representing plaintiff's salary for January, into Court, considering it sufficient to satisfy the plaintiff's claim.

The plaintiff testified that he had been dismissed on account of the depression in business and defendant's business situation and that he had been unable to secure employment, though he had tried a long list of firms. Defendant also gave evidence and the hearing was adjourned until next Monday.

SECOND TO NONE NAVY FOR U.S. IS DENBY'S DEMAND

New Secretary Wants Men To Be "Trained To Minute," He Says

BUT DOES NOT FEAR WAR

Harding Wants Building Program Kept Up Pending Agreement

(Reuter's Service)

Detroit, Feb. 28.—The new Secretary for the Navy, Mr. Edwin Denby, has not taken long to define the intentions and naval policy of the new government. In a statement he said that their objective was to have a navy "second to none, trained to the minute and with the best material." Mr. Denby added that while he does not fear a war with any Powers, the peculiar situation of the United States justifies a strong first line of defense.

St. Augustine, (Fla) Feb. 28.—Discussing the naval building program, President-Elect Harding said "I've told such members of the Senate and House Committee as asked me that I would be very reluctant to suspend the capital construction program until we are in agreement with other nations regarding a plan of disarmament."

San Francisco, Feb. 28.—Rear-Admiral Morgan has received orders to remain in San Francisco. It is believed in naval quarters that he may be given command of the Pacific Fleet owing to the retirement of Admiral Jayne through illness.

Washington, Feb 28.—The submarine, S48, which has just been launched by the Lake Torpedo Company of Bridgeport is one of the latest developments in submarine construction in the American Navy. The vessel is 240 feet long and has a displacement of 1,000 tons. It is constructed to withstand the pressure at a depth of 200 feet and is fitted with a specially designed protection against depth-charge shock. In addition, the submarine possesses a submersible radio apparatus, a battery of five twenty-one inch torpedo tubs and one four-inch gun.

Business Men In Japan Support Disarmament

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Nagasaki, March 1.—Mr. Ozaki's recent campaign has resulted in the arousing of wide-spread and intense public sentiment in favor of disarmament. Business men are particularly impressed by the fact that half of Japan's national expenditure is for armaments, and they regard this as the greatest obstacle to the economic development of the country.

The Joint Association of Japanese Trade Guilds is holding a committee meeting today in an Osaka hotel in order to discuss the disarmament question. The Asahi, commenting on this move, says that business men have thus far held aloof from politics, permitting the Government to do as it liked, and consequently the successive cabinets have curried favor with the militarists, disregarding public opinion and the national interest.

Heavy expenditure on armaments, which is disproportionate to the national resources, it continues, increases suspicion on the part of the friendly powers, leading Japan toward a position of political and economic isolation, while it also necessitates the postponement of educational and social reforms and foreshadows ultimate huge increases in taxation. Besides, the Asahi declares, unduly large armaments often open the way for war. Japan's so-called national defense scheme is really exceeding her requirements for defensive purposes.

The Asahi congratulates Japanese business men upon their awakening, and gives its hearty support to their movement in opposition to an unjustifiable expansion of armaments.

Tokio, Feb. 28.—At a meeting attended by representatives of 17 newspapers it was resolved to present the Home Minister with a strong protest against the suppression of news, and demand the freedom of press and speech, and it was decided, unless the present censorship system ceases, to plan a series of mass meetings and appeal to the public.

MAJOR KESWICK, FORMER COUNCIL HEAD, IN CITY

Ex-Chairman In Shanghai; Pauses En Route To Japan

Major Henry Keswick, former Far Eastern head of Jardine, Matheson and Co. and chairman of the Municipal Council, British Chamber of Commerce and other bodies, arrived in Shanghai a brief while ago on the private yacht Cutty Sark and then sailed on for Japan where he will meet Mrs. Keswick, returning to Shanghai about the end of the month.

All Ewo ships in port were dressed in honor of the former taipan's arrival and he was met by Mr. A. Brooke Smith, head of Jardine's and chairman of the Council, and others of the company's staff. Major Keswick is in the East on a combined business and pleasure trip. He left England early in November, stopping at many ports en route and making a stay of several weeks in Hongkong, from which port he proceeded to Shanghai. Mrs. Keswick arrives in Japan on the Tenyo Maru and the yacht will then return to Shanghai, from which point Major Keswick expects to make a trip up the river as far as Ichang, then proceeding, possibly, to Tientsin before starting across the Pacific on his way home through the Panama Canal.

SERVED AS M. P.

Since Major Keswick's retirement he has served as Unionist M. P. for the Epsom Division of Surrey. During the South African war he served as captain in the 3rd Battalion of the King's Own Scottish Borderers and during the recent world war he rejoined his old battalion. He left Shanghai in 1907 and previous to that time was one of the foremost figures in the public life of the Settlement as well as in a business way. Besides being chairman of the Municipal Council he was chairman of the British Chamber of Commerce and was an active factor in other departments here. After his location in Hongkong he became a member of the Legislative and Executive Councils of the Colony and was chairman of the Hongkong and Shanghai Bank, the Hongkong Chamber of Commerce and the Dock Company. He was the first chairman of the Far Eastern section of the London Chamber of Commerce and a member of the London Committee of the Hongkong and Shanghai Bank. He retired as head of Ewo in the Far East ten years ago.

On his way to Shanghai Major Kerwiek visited Bordeaux, Marseilles, Monte Carlo, Naples, Port Said, Suez, Aden, Laccadives Islands, Cochin, Colombo, Bangkok, Penang, Singapore, Saigon and Hongkong. It is his first trip East since 1911.

FACTIONS PLAY POLITICS, KEEP CHINA DIVIDED

Official Greed And Ambition Great Barriers To Unification

(Staff Correspondence)

Peking, Feb. 27.—It becomes more and more apparent that the strife between the North and South of China is a matter of politics rather than anything really [illegible] the various provinces are adopting various attitudes; some, while apparently sitting on the fence, are secretly discussing terms with the Government; others nominally acknowledging Peking's authority, are claiming independence and talking self-government, while yet others refuse any rapprochement with the Government. But with all the object is the same—the desire for power and an active participation in the governing functions at the Capital, in the effort to attain which all have sent their emissaries to the enstranged provinces ostensibly to discuss peace; others to discuss reorganisation measures. These emissaries, recognised and received, have, upon their demands being granted, whether for money or position, immediately forgotten all pledges of loyalty, and a sacrifice of the peoples' savings through unnecessary taxes, is the result.

An illustration of present conditions is shown in the fact that despite the application for funds of the emissary from Kwangsi having been granted, he yet remains in Peking, and the Yunnan emissary, whose chief, Tang Chiyao, the former Tuchun of Yunnan, has fallen also continues, both of whom are disturbing factors. Unless the Government speedily discontinues to pursue its present method of purchasing unscrupulous politicians with public funds, it is acting not in behalf but against the public good.

U.S.-GERMAN PEACE IS DISCOUNTED BY ALLIES

ENVOYS ARRIVE

Large, Silent Crowd Greets Visitors From Berlin

(Reuter's Service)

London, March 1.—A large and silent crowd assembled at Victoria Station to witness the arrival of the German delegation to the momentous Reparations Conference. The full personnel of the German Embassy, headed by the German Ambassador, Dr. von Sthamer, met the delegates at the station. It was the largest gathering of Germans at one spot in London since the war. The German thoroughness was illustrated by the fact that the delegates brought their own electricians and mechanics to instal extra telephones and other business requisites.

A factor that has not been overlooked by the Allies in connection with the settlement of the reparations question is the attitude of the new American administration, which may end the state of war with Germany, push ahead commercial relations and would most likely frown very severely on French occupation plans in the event of German perverseness.

The first meeting at which the Germans will state their case will be held at midday in the state dining-room of Lancaster House, formerly Stafford House. The British, French, Japanese, Italian and Belgian representatives will attend this meeting. The Allies will later consider Dr. von Simons' statement, and Mr. Lloyd George, who will by that time be in possession of the report of Marshal Foch and Field Marshal Sir Henry Wilson, outlining what is to be done should it prove necessary to carry out the sanctions, will announce the Allies' decision in regard to the counter-proposals on the resumption of the conference at St. James's Palace tomorrow.

The Germans are evidently impressed with the extent of the counter-proposals. One delegate told a representative of the Daily News that the German offer would "astonish the world." Dr. von Simons, who in the meanwhile refuses to commit himself to any statement, declared that his cabinet had definitely instructed him not to make any statement for publication yet.

American School Principal Speaks At Woman's Club

Mr. Willard W. Bartlett, principal of the Shanghai American School delivered a paper of special interest to all concerned in educational problems on "Present Day Tendencies in American Education" at the meeting of the American Woman's Club yesterday afternoon at the Carlton Cafe.

The tendency of the United States to break away from the traditional and stress the practical in education was pointed out by Mr. Bartlett. Examples of this tendency given by Mr. Bartlett were the practical character of the curriculum of the high school and the Y.M.C.A.; the practical method used in teaching; the practical aim in American education; and the practical manner of school administration.

"By practical," said Mr. Bartlett, "I do not mean merely money making, but I mean everything that fits into the practical needs of every day life. The aesthetic is part of the practical.

"We need the beautiful as much as we need food, shelter and clothing. The practical is only practical when it contains a proper balance between the things on one hand which enable us to earn a living, and the things on the other hand which enable us to appreciate and enjoy the beautiful in life. American education has tended to be ove balanced in favor of the cultural. The introduction of so many money making branches tends to give it a better balance."

In closing Mr. Bartlett pointed out that while splendid advances in practicability have been made that the spiritual content had been lost in many places. In conclusion he said,

"I had endeavored to sum up the modern day tendencies in American education under two heads. First, a tendency to break away from traditional standards and to make education practical. Second, a tendency to lose the spiritual content of education. But while these two things are combined today, there is nothing essential in the combination. There is absolutely no reason why an advance in practicability should be accompanied by a loss of spiritual content.

"There is no reason why a business school or a technical school should not be as permeated with the spirit of unselfishness and of service as have been our classical schools of the past. The best of our American business men and technical men are going into their work with the same spirit that animates the minister, the missionary, or the teacher.

We can develop ideals of unselfish service in our boys and girls just as easily as we can develop ideals of money making. Say to our boys and girls in the grades "If you will go to high school you can accomplish more in the world than if you do not." Say to our boys and girls in high school "If you will go to college you can be of greater service to humanity than if you do not." Place before our boys and girls teachers who are intent on money making and our boys and girls will catch the spirit. Place before our boys and girls teachers who are intent on unselfish service to the world and the students will catch the spirit. Character is caught, not taught."

Smiles from the Mixed Court

Evidently the tailoring business has fallen upon the same evil days which have come to practically all other businesses and some of the makers of clothes have taken to a less subtle form of robbery.

On Sunday there came to the shop of Mr. Maung one Chang Dzung-sung, fashioner of garments, who gave greetings and reported that he was emissary for Mr. Loh, a close personal friend of Mr. Maung. Mr. Loh, it appeared, was in urgent need of the sum of $5 with which to make an important purchase. Not having that much in the till at the time he had bethought himself of his good friend, and would Mr. Maung lend Mr. Loh a $5 note, giving the money to Mr. Chang for transmission? Mr. Maung would make the loan but he would send it by his son, Maung Tsz-tok, who, bearing the bill, would accompany Mr. Chang to Mr. Loh's establishment.

At the corner of Tongshan and Dent Roads Chang halted. He had forgotten an important point. Was the note borne by Maung minor a foreign or a Chinese bank note? Because Mr. Loh had indicated a preference for a foreign note. Maung Jr. didn't know, but he would ascertain. So he produced the note and was unfolding it when it was whisked with magic deftness from his fingers, and there was Chang receding rapidly down Tongshan Road. As soon as he had recovered his breath young Maung converted it into a succession of poignant shrieks and a perceptive shopkeeper reached out and collared Chang on the fly.

When brought before the Court Chang denied that he had tried to abduct the note. He had merely asked to examine it because he was suddenly struck with the idea of borrowing it himself, and wanted to make sure it was negotiable. Presumably he was taking the note away somewhere to examine it under a strong light.

Chang's customers will get no more fittings nor bills for a month.

THE ABSTRACTION OF TS

Drifting into the chinaware department of the Wing On store, Ts Zau-sung paused at an unattended counter, picked up a gracefully modelled egg cup, inspected it judiciously, made a mysterious pass with his hand and, lo, the cup had vanished. He picked up another of the set and it, too, dissolved from view.

Twice again he repeated the stunt. Then a clerk at another counter who had grown goggle-eyed watching the performance went in search of one of the store detectives. This operative did a little prestidigitation himself, producing the crockery from Ts' left trouser leg.

The discovery of the egg cups, Ts told the Court, was a great surprise to him. He had been out dining with friends and had just dropped into the store to amuse himself and view the wares. He did not remember having taken the cups, and if he really had taken them, as, he was constrained to admit, seemed likely, it must have been sheer absentmindedness. He had no intention of stealing anything.

Taking this into consideration the Magistrate thought Ts would be safer in jail and sent him there for a month.

U.S. And Japan Exchange Notes On Radio Pact

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, March 1.—As a result of the Japanese and Danish Ministers' protest against the American wireless contract, the United States Government has communicated directly with the Governments of Japan and Denmark, basing its communication entirely on the treaty of 1858.

It is semi-officially stated that after the Japanese protest to the Chinese Government the Japanese Legation sent a communication to the American Legation, enclosing that portion of the Mitsui contract on which the protest of Japan is based. In handing in the American communication, the American Charge d'Affaires at Tokio inquired whether the action of the Japanese Minister at Peking reflected the official attitude of the Japanese Government.

It is stated that the Mitsui contract in no way conflicts with the Great Northern contract. However, the Danish protest opens up the whole question of wireless competition with the cables, which, it is hoped, will be cleared up in the course of the present discussions.

European Coal Imports Fall Off

(Reuter's Service)

London, Feb. 28.—At question-time in the House of Commons today, Mr. W. C. Bridgeman, the Parliamentary Secretary to the Board of Trade, stated that the quantity of coal exported from the United States to Europe for the year ending June, 1913, amounted to 476,000 tons, from Australia 100,000 tons and from China 28,000 tons. The amounts exported in 1920 from the United States was 13,383,000 tons, and from Australia 113,000 tons. The exact quantity of coal exported from China during the same period was not known. Mr. Bridgeman added that he was not without hope of Great Britain's recovering the coal market from America.

London, March 1.—The paralysing effects of trade depression are complicating the difficulties of the coal problem and the fall in the output in consequence of the slackness has obliterated the whole of the wage advances of three shillings and six pence per shift which were secured by the miners in the November strike settlement. There are 22,000 miners idle in the Rhondda Valley, and it is estimated that over 70,000 colliery workers in the South Wales coal fields were unemployed or working short time last week-end.

ADMISSION RULE LED ARGENTINE TO QUIT LEAGUE

Documents Reveal Why South Americans Decided To Retire

(Reuter's Service)

Buenos Aires, Feb. 2.—(By mail). Official documents now made public here disclose the fact that the withdrawal of the Argentine delegates from the League of Nations Assembly at Geneva was expressly ordered by President Irigoyen, after the chief of the Argentine delegation had inquired whether Argentina would be satisfied with a partial compliance with its demand that all sovereign states should have the right of membership in the League.

It appears that Dr. Honorio Pueyrredon, head of the Argentine delegation, was instructed before the meeting of the League Assembly that the delegation must not compromise itself in any way, or take part in the work of the Assembly, before a decision had been reached on the "fundamental proposition" that all sovereign states were entitled to admission.

Two days after the League assembled, Dr. Pueyrredon was instructed by his government that "if for any reason whatever" the Argentine contention should "not prosper or should be postponed," the Argentine delegation must "without delay retire," presenting a note explaining its points of view and its ideals.

On December 7, Dr. Pueyrredon informed his Government that the Assembly had postponed consideration of the Argentine proposition, and that he had, therefore, withdrawn. It is shown further by the documents that the attitude of the Argentine Government in regard to the eligibility of sovereign states to membership in the League was taken up so long ago as March, 1919.

Famine Drive In Shantung Succeeds

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Tsinanfu, Feb. 26.—The Shantung Famine Relief Drive is making splendid progress. The total receipts for Tsinanfu up to the present amount to $50,000, with the rest of the Province still to be heard from. Large collections are expected, especially from Tsingtao and Chefoo. The fete in the Public Gardens here, with which the Drive started, has closed. The grounds of the Tuchun's Yamen were thrown open yesterday to the public, and as the admission fee was no small one, and the attendance was surprisingly large, a goodly return is anticipated. The Public Gardens will again be the center of activities next week, when the school children of the city will take charge.

Hankow Famine Drive Opened

(Staff Correspondence)

Hankow, Feb. 27.—The Wuhan Famine Relief Drive was launched at a tea-party given by General Wang Chuan-yuan, Military Governor and Mr. Hsia Shou-kang, Civil Governor, held at the Hankow Chinese Y. M. C. A., the headquarters of the Joint Council of Relief Societies of Hankow.

Dressed in simple attirements and without a lengthy retinue, the governors crossed the river from Wuchang, and arrived in the Y. M. C. A. ahead of the arranged time. The governors had invited most of the prominent Chinese and foreigners in Hankow, Wuchang and Hanyang, and among those present were: Mr. J. C. Houston, United States Consul-General, Mr. G. Lecomte, French Consul-General, Mr. A. Segawa, Japanese Consul-General, Mr. A. T. Beltchenko, Advisor of Russian Affairs in Hankow. About 150 were present, and of them two thirds were Chinese.

Shipbuilding At Hog Island Ends

Great Yard At Philadelphia Once Employed 36,000 Workers

(Reuter's Service)

Philadelphia, Feb. 9 (By mail).—Shipbuilding activity at Hog Island, the world's largest shipyard, has ceased. With the delivery of the steamship "Aisne" to the Army Transport Service after the vessel's trial trips during the latter part of January, not a ship remains to be completed at the great plant.

Hog Island, during the three years of its existence, has been one of the chief factors in placing America in the front rank of maritime powers. Created as a war-time emergency, more than 36,000 men and women were employed there at the peak of its operations.

The first keel was laid on February 12, 1918, and since then 122 vessels, of a total of 956,750 deadweight tons—more than one-tenth of the Shipping Board Emergency Fleet Corporation's tonnage of contract steel ships built at all the ship-yards in the United States—have been turned out.

Explorer's Ship To Be Launched Soon

The "Bowdoin" Will Carry Dr. MacMillan On Next Arctic Trip

(Reuter's Service)

East Boothbay, ME., Feb. 7.—(By mail). Work is almost completed on the hull of the Bowdoin, in which Dr. Donald B. MacMillan, explorer, will make his next dash into the Arctic regions. The launching of the schooner will take place in the early spring, and the vessel will be in shape to depart from this port by May 1.

Dr. MacMillan is perfecting plans for an expedition, to begin next summer, which will include an attempt to circumnavigate Baffin Land and penetrate its western coast, 1,000 miles in length, said to be the longest stretch of unknown coast-line in the world.

Under favorable weather conditions the Bowdoin should reach Fury and Hecla Strait early in September. There the ship will be frozen in.

Leaving their vessel under a lone guard, the party will push forward on a 200-miles trip on sleds drawn by dogs. Five Eskimo dog-drivers will accompany the MacMillan outfit across the rugged, ice-bound country which abounds in perils. Establishing of a camp 700 miles south of Etah in the north-western part of Greenland is one of the main objectives.

MEN NAMED TO ORGANISE FIVES FOR BIG SERIES

Managers Designated For Basketball Teams In International Series

ENGLAND ENTERS FIRST

China, United States, Korea, Portugal And Canada Are To Come In

As yet the International basketball series is high in the air as but one team, that representing England, has officially declared that it will enter the tournament. China is anxious to be in the series and the Chinese Y.M.C.A. five has agreed to stand as the nucleus for a quintet to represent this country.

It is hoped that the United States, Canada, Portugal and Korea will be represented and it has been suggested that individuals be named to look after the destinies of the various countries for the series.

Americans willing to play are urged to send their names to K. W. Irie, American-Oriental Banking Corporation.

Chinese college and school stars are asked to communicate with T. T. Zee, at the Anglo-Chinese Dispensary. Zee is captain of the Chinese Y.M.C.A. quintet and is anxious that his team be strengthened for the series.

S. P. Westaway has been named by the Canadian Association of China to look after Canada in athletics and he gets his start by agitating for a basketball team. Canadian basketball men are asked to get in touch with Westaway at the Standard Oil Company.

The English team, which means the Rowing Club five of the Foreign League, is to be in charge of E. Nash at the Municipal Council Secretariat and Nash will be glad to get recruits.

A. Remedios, 99 Range Road, is to organise the Portuguese team and K. C. Shen of Nanyang College, will look after the Korean representation.

Team managers are urged to send their entries to this office as soon as possible in order that a meeting of those interested may be held when a schedule will be prepared and plans made for the series.

Big Three Of East Will Not Play California

Princeton, Yale and Harvard have all declined to play California in the East next October. California wired for a game with one of the Big Three to be played back East October 22. None of the Eastern teams has that date open, they wired. California does not care to meet any Eastern team in the East other than one of the Big Three.

California wanted the game back East in October because its schedule is already fixed for November, and so are the schedules of the Eastern Big Three. Eastern football teams have come to the Coast, and after being defeated made excuses about the long trip and change of climate. Andy Smith was willing to have his Bears make the trip and take a chance in the East.

HOLES BRASSIE SHOT

Henry B. Swoope of the Overbrook Golf Club, Philadelphia, achieved a rather remarkable "eagle" on the fourth hole of the championship course at Pinehurst North Carolina. His drive for the hole did not amount to much, but his brassie shot reached the distant green and rolled gently into the cup for a 2, two strokes under par.

NICHOLS WINS FOR COLUMBIA CLUB QUINTET

Captain Shoots Foul As Time Is Up And Greens Lose 38-39

The ability of Captain R. B. Nichols to shoot a goal from the foul line when victory or defeat hung on the single point was the factor which gave the Columbia Country Club a hair-line win over the Greens in the Foreign League last night in a fast and exciting basketball game. Each team had 38 points and just as the timer blew the whistle, Referee Zee called a foul on a Green's player. And Nichols pulled his team through beautifully.

Nichols had a great evening on the floor. He shot nine baskets, kept his team working well and then pulled over the winning point.

The Greens were strengthened by three Nanyang stars and got away to a big start, ending the first half in the long end at 21-14 score. The Columbia Club came strong in the second half, however and tied the score—and then Nichols netted the winning goal from the foul line.

The summary:

Columbia Club 39		Greens 38
R. B. Nichols (Capt.)	lf	D. Lee
J. Smith	rf	Jackson (Capt.)
Porterfield	c	E. Lee
Dunham	lg	Geldart
W. A. B. Nichols	lg	Woo

Goals from floor: R. B. Nichols, 9; C. Smith, 6; Porterfield 2; Dawson, 2; D. Lee, 3; Jackson, 4; E. Lee, 3; Jensen, 4; Woo, 3; Geldart.

Goals from fouls: Jackson, 2; R. B. Nichols.

Half-Million Dollar Stadium To Be Erected In Shanghai For 1927 Olympic Games

Campaign To Start With Far Eastern Championship Meet In May And Financial Drive Gets Under Way After Famine Ends

A stadium to cost in the neighborhood of $500,000, to be available for the Far Eastern Championship Games in 1927, is the plan of Dr. John H. Gray, honorary secretary of the China Committee for the 1921 Olympics and a campaign is to be launched for the new athletic plant in May when the Far Eastern Games will be held here.

No move will be made to raise funds until the famine situation needs no further attention, the men behind the agitation for the stadium taking the same attitude held by those in charge of raising money for the new foreign Y.M.C.A. here.

Dr. C. T. Wang, president of the 1921 China Committee, is interested and it is expected that the Peking Government will be asked to secure land and make a substantial contribution to the building fund.

The May Olympic games will give the idea a strong impetus and with interest in athletics at its height in all parts of China now the agitation for a stadium will find country-wide support. After the meet, which will probably be held at Hongkew Park, the need for a big athletic plant will be realised even more and then a committee will be appointed to secure a site and start a financial campaign which will probably be finished by the end of this year. This means that work will start in 1922 and by 1923 the stadium will be ready for provincial meets, school and college games and local sporting events. It will then be available for the 1927 Olympics—in 1923 are to be held in Tokio and in 1925 the Far East teams go to Manila for the biennial competitions.

FOR WORLD MEET

Thus nearly six years will give the men behind the movement opportunity to have one of the greatest atheltiic plants in the world and will give China something to offer the World Olympics for that is the ultimate reason for the proposed stadium.

Local business houses, civic organisations and governmental bureaus will lend their support to the movement for the building of a stadium would mean that Shanghai would loom large on the world's athletic map. Business men, particularly would realise the amount of money which would come to Shanghai in the event of a World Olympic meet here.

While the amount has been fixed at $500,000, a sum comparatively easy to raise with the assistance of the government, it is expected that the structure will cost another quarter of a million before the next Far Eastern Olympic in 1927.

YEAR TO RAISE MONEY

The stadium proposition will be discussed at meetings of athletic representatives from all parts of China who will be here in May for the Far East Championships and it is planned that they shall return to their provinces as financial missionaries in behalf of the proposition. With a year to raise money and all China contributing, the matter of half a million dollars need not be treated as difficult.

The financial campaign is planned after the famine-stricken provinces have been relieved. It will be a China stadium built by the officials and people of China with the help of interested foreigners.

Sites for the proposed athletic plant have been discussed and it will be erected either in the Kiangwan District on in the Far Western part of Shanghai City, outside the boundaries of the International Settlement.

Those behind the scheme are looking ahead thirty years for they believe that the stadium if erected in a locality which now seems far "out of town," will eventually be near the center of Shanghai for they figure that the settlement must extend far beyond its present boundaries and that development of transportation facilities will be such that the stadium will not be "far from town" after a few years.

Dear Sir,

Due to the fact that we are FAIL TO MAKE PROFIT by using a engine, which by its SLOWNESS in work, EXPENSIVE in charges and also DIRTY and NOISY. The engine we are now using is 12 H.P. Having learned that an ELECTRIC MOTOR is a HASTY and ENERGETIC worker, it works QUIETLY, expends ECONOMICALLY, locates only a SMALL SPACE, and is EASY TO OPERATE. By the above several GOODNESS we would like to make a change and it might satisfy us when taking into use. Hope you will send us one for our benefit at your earliest convenience.

Very truly yours,

MRS. MARIA JOSE PEREIRA

Her many friends in Shanghai will receive with sympathetic regret the news of the death last evening of Mrs. Maria Jose Pereira at her residence at 9 Chusan Road. Mrs. Pereira, who was 81 years of age, had lived in Shanghai for the past 20 years and had a wide circle of friends. She was ill for but a short time, death being due to bronchitis. She is survived by three sons and one daughter, Messrs. M. E. S., J. M. E. and C. M. E. Pereira, all of whom reside in Shanghai. Funeral services will be held at the residence at 4 p.m. today and afterward at the Church of the Sacred Heart of Jesus, Nanzing Road. Interment will be at Bubbling Well Cemetery at 5 p.m. All friends are invited to attend.

CAPT. S. CORNELL PLANT

News of the death of Captain S. Cornell Plant, pioneer navigator of the Yangtsze, was received with a shock by his many friends here yesterday and will be read with sorrow all up and down the river.

Captain Plant, accompanied by Mrs. Plant, sailed for England on the Blue Funnel steamer Teresias only last Thursday. He was not well when he left here and developed pneumonia, dying on Friday morning.

Captain Plant was one of the veteran navigators of the Yangtsze and his knowledge of the river in its upper reaches has been invaluable to skippers plying those dangerous waters. He was River Inspector of the C. M. Customs on the Upper Yangtsze and had done splendid work for the country in the stretches of the river above Hankow. He placed his deep knowledge of the Yangtsze in several volumes of incalculable service to its navigators.

Deepest sympathy will be extended by the hosts of Captain Plant's friends to his mother, who is in England, and to his widow.

10,000 IDLE IN VANCOUVER

But Wood Pulp Industry And Trapping Offset Depression

New York, Jan. 22.—Fur trapping and the increased volume of the pulp industry are both factors in keeping British Columbia from feeling all the ill effects of the present industrial depression which has cast a shadow over the greater part of the world, according to A. E. Woodruff, who returned last week from Vancouver, B. C. Mr. Woodruff, who is an Englishman, has spent several months in Canada, studying conditons there, and is most optimistic in regard to them.

"With the great increase in the cost of paper and the shortage of materials elsewhere, the pulp industry has taken a tremendous impetus in the neighborhood of Vancouver," said Mr. Woodruff at the Hotel Pennsylvania. "All around new pulp mills are springing up, and from a business that was practically insignificant it has become an important one. However, I feel that the business depression which exists over the greater part of Canada is more largely due to conditions in the United States than any one usually admits. New York is the big market for Canadian products, after all, and it is an undoubted fact that whenever a Presidential election takes place in the United States and a consequent feeling of unrest exists, it is immediately felt in Canada.

"There is a great deal of unemployment in Canada. Even in Vancouver there are as many as 10,000 men out of work. The Government is contemplating the building of roads and public works to give employment to men. While the prices of furs have taken a great tumble in this country, the trappers have not as yet been affected and they are still receiving enormous prices for their furs."

Alpine Monks Find Three Murdered Men

Killing And Robbing Of Italian Climbers First Such Crime In Alps History

Geneva, Jan. 22.—A story of murder in the Alps Mountains, a thing unheard of before in Alpine history, has been reported by the monks of the St. Bernard Hospice, which stands at an elevation of 8,110 feet.

The monks and their dogs were aroused in the early morning of Friday by revolver shots and went to investigate. With the aid of the dogs they found in the deep snow the bodies of three well-to-do Italian Alpinists, named Leten, Anselcin and Brignon.

The bodies of two of the men were found first, riddled with bullets. They had been robbed of all their possessions. After the longer search, with the help of the Swiss patrol guarding the frontier, the body of the third man was discovered. The three Alpinists had started from Aosta without guides. They were last seen in the village of Gignod, 3,260 feet, whence they left for the St. Bernard Hospice.

Traces left near the victims show that the murderers used skis. Both the Swiss and Italian passes are being guarded by the Alpine police, and monks and dogs are aiding them in their search for the murderers.

secretary of the Race Club. It is the third volume in the series.

The volume gives a complete list of the races at Shanghai and Kiangwan courses; the results of races according to distances; total stakes won prior to 1920 by ponies, records of which appear in the volume; records of ponies for 1920; lists showing 1920 maidens placed during the year and ponies not being maidens which did not win a race during 1920 but were placed; jockey record for the year; parimutuel dividends of note; a list of winning owners, with the value of stakes won; winners of principal races, steeplechases and challenge cups from 1911 to the end of 1920, and the stewards and officials of the Race Club.

There is a tremendous amount of information aggregated in the "Racing Record" and Mr. Olsen is to be congratulated on the wealth of data which he has compiled for the benefit of the racing devotee here.

If criticism were in order suggestions might be given to the author to include in subsequent volumes: a schedule of coming races in so far as it is possible, and a comparison of records for Shanghai ponies on the Shanghai and Kiangwan courses with Shanghai and other ponies on the courses at Hongkong, Peking, Hankow and Tientsin.

WHAT WOMAN NEEDS

above all things are Health and Happiness. These are the true Woman's Rights! Every woman is entitled to them. Dame Nature intended her daughters to be healthy in body and happy in mind. Any woman conscious of pain and trouble which she feels might be removed will be well advised to make careful enquiry as to the cause. If it is found—as indeed is frequently the case—that a disordered digestion is giving rise to ill-health and the consequent depression of spirits, medicine of the right sort will doubtless soon set matters right. And it stands to the right credit Beecham's Pills are to be scientific recommended for woman's needs. They may be taken with perfect confidence for derangements of the digestive organs, including such unpleasant ailments as sick-headache, biliousness, flatulence, constipation and the loathsome and worries often incidental to her sex. Notice to Architects re a competition (with prize) for designs of buildings for a model residential center.

Peking, being the capital city of China with both foreign and Chinese residences, and as the area is so large, all municipal improvements must be built gradually. Therefore it is decided to take the site of the old Examination Hall, bounded on the North by Tsung Pu Hutung, and South by Swei-mo Hutung, covering an area of about 150 Mow, for the building of a model residential center for the residences of both foreigners and Chinese, the central portion of which shall be a public place for rest and amusement. The Main Hall will seat 2,500 people with large restaurant, club rooms, and library. There will be also parks and tennis courts. The remaining portion of this property will be used for three classes of residential houses of two stories, all facing south, with a garden attached to each. All houses are connected with proper roads and provided with sewage connection, and water supply for modern bath rooms. It is hoped that all architects will submit drawings and designs for this improvement. Prizes are provided for the successful architects. An outline of the conditions is as follows:

PRIZES: 1st $2,000
2nd $1,000

The architect who is awarded the 1st prize shall also be chosen as the architect for the principal building of the central part.

TIME LIMIT.—Instructions to competitors will be given out between the date of advertisement and March 15th by the 3rd Department of the Direction Generale, daily from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. A registration fee of $5 will be charged. Name, address, education, experience, and present occupation of the competitor will be required.

CAL. THE GERMAN BLUFF, MAKE 'EM PAY!—LOUCHEUR

French Minister Says Germany Can Pay 10 Billion Francs A Year

FOR ALLIED RECEIVERSHIP

France's Greatest Capitalist Thinks Entente Shouldn't Wait For Bosses To Ruin Country

BY EDWIN L. JAMES

Paris, Jan. 18.—Louis Loucheur, the new Minister for the French Devastated Regions, says that Germany can pay 10,000,000,000 francs indemnity annually. Four-fifths of this, he says, could be paid in coal without crippling German industry.

M. Loucheur, who is rated as the richest man in France, is one of the country's leaders of industry. He was a member of the French Peace Commission and took a prominent part in drafting the financial clauses of the Treaty of Versailles.

Since M. Loucheur is going to take part in the interallied conference which will meet in Paris next Monday, his opinion on how much and how Germany can pay is timely. It is his belief that the Allies must take radical action to collect the indemnity.

"The German game is clear," he said in an interview today. "It is to drive the republic to bankruptcy. The bosses in Berlin figure that in letting the economic situation continue to get worse, in making no real effort to better the financial situation, in snapping their fingers at the deficit which increases daily in the public services, and in constantly depreciating the mark by daily emissions of paper money, they can in several months say to the Entente: 'We've had enough of this. You take charge of our affairs.'

"In my opinion we ought not to wait for this invitation. We may find ourselves facing a situation impossible of solution. We must have a detailed summing up, and then trifle and discuss no longer. We have only to take account of the situation in Germany and say: 'All right. The Entente will take charge of Germany. Germany will find in us honest liquidators. We are just as much interested as her leaders in her economic recovery but we are going to have more courage in taking the necessary measures.'

PROPOSED REFORMS

"Now, I will tell you what measures I mean.

"First, cut the mark into four or five; give it real value. What is the use of talking about billions when the monetary unit has lost its buying power?

"Then put some order into the public services. Is it admissible that the operation of the railroads should show an annual deficit of 20,000,000,000? We French have increased our railroad rates. Why shouldn't the German people bear the same burden? The same reasoning applies to the postal service, which also shows a deficit. We should then control a carefully worked out German budget, and we should see that, as the treaty provides, the taxpayer across the Rhine would pay as much as the French taxpayer, and we should take measures so that the taxes were paid.

"I believe that to allow the latter to be paid entirely in manufactured products would be a great mistake. Our own industry would suffer. The only possible solution I can see at this time is payment in coal. I have examined carefully the figures of German coal production for the last forty years. I have calculated the needs of Germany's industries and that of the neutrals of which she is the natural furnisher. Taking account of these elements, I figure that Germany can turn over to us annually 3,000,000,000 francs worth of coal. We can easily find 2,000,000,000 francs more in her chemical products and taxes on exports—a total of 10,000,000,000 francs.

"We have talked enough. The Germans must pay. It is France, sure of her right, who must give them formal assurance that they are going to pay."

ZETKIN TELLS OF INVADING FRANCE

German Communist Deputy Went Without Mishap By Rail And Auto To Tours

FRENCH ACCENT AIDED

She Spent 36 Hours In Paris And A Day And Night At Rheims

Berlin, Jan. 19.—The resumption of the sessions of the Reichstag has brought back to Berlin Frau Clara Zetkin, whose audacious trip to Tours created such a sensation in France. She has received many congratulations on her pluck, not only from her partisans, the communists, but also from the reactionary Nationalists; for any trick played upon the French authorities will always be applauded by junkerdom.

It was with difficulty that The New York Times correspondent persuaded the lively little gray-haired woman to give an account of her recent visit, which she thought much less interesting than her trip last year to Russia, where her friend Lenin convinced her "by facts of the supremacy of Bolshevism."

"You just telegraph The New York Times what Americans are missing," she urged, "by not having elected a man like the President (Lenin), who still wore the same old hat he had six years ago and who never eats anything but the soup distributed to all by the Moscow Government." And at that the little Parliamentarian blushed somewhat at her own new lilac-colored dress, almost reaching to her feet.

"You must not think we played any tricks on the French Government," she said. "I am like most Communists; I hate lies. I had no other papers than my German passport, which described me as Clara Zetkin, a member of the Reichstag, adding a few complimentary remarks regarding my personal appearance. Where I crossed the border I must not reveal, nor how it happened that the frontier guard never noticed that my passport was not properly vised, because our Communist comrades may have to rely upon the same methods to cross France, and I must not spoil their game.

"Well, I passed through the devastated district, and I must say I was shocked. I never expected to see such business, which makes me wonder no longer at French hatred against the Germans. Beyond the devastated districts the train became extremely crowded, and the passengers often addressed me, but they never suspected my nationality, because I speak French very well, having lived in Paris for more than eight years.

"My heart beat quickly whenever we stopped at any station, for I feared the control officers might ask unpleasant questions. The danger became pressing when we reached the Gare du Nord in Paris, where policemen in plain clothes stop any suspicious looking arrival."

But Frau Zetkin passed this ordeal successfully.

Continuing her story, she said:

"I took a seat in front of the Cafe de la Paix and ordered coffee. Then I looked about. So this was Paris after the war! Well, I could not see any difference, except that the women wore extremely short skirts and very low necks. Otherwise Paris is the same city I left some time before the war—even more Parisian, if possible; livelier more elegant, and with streets full of Yankees and English.

"I hastened to my old friends, who could not believe their eyes when they saw their unexpected visitor. I stayed thirty-six hours with my friends in Paris, who would not let me continue my journey to Tours by railway, but rented an automobile at an enormous price. Before nightfall myself and a Parisian friend were en route for Tours, travelling in the dark, because the nearer we got to Tours the more vigilant became the police, and my Parisian friend said I should never have been able to reach the Tours railway station undetected. Nevertheless, we took three meals in hotels on the way, and, as my Parisian friend never failed to speak in a very nasty way about Germany, and even more nastily about Lenin, nothing happened.

"We reached Tours before noon and lunched at my [word missing] house. My visit was a great surprise to the delegates of the Third Internationale assembled there, who had merely heard that Clara Zetkin had been prevented from crossing into France.

"It was 7 o'clock in the evening when I and my Parisian companion entered the congress, and the members were speechless when my name was announced. After a short consultation with the Chairman all the doors were locked and guards were placed before them, whereupon trusted delegates rushed to the three telephone booths in the hall and began conversations with any Tom, Dick or Harry in Paris; for these telephones connected the congress directly with the French capital, and if any secret agent present had notified Millerand he would never have permitted me to leave France again.

"Thundering applause greeted me when I began my address, which it was arranged should last only half an hour. Meanwhile our car took in fuel and provisions for several days.

"When I finished the audience fairly stormed the stage, wishing to congratulate me and shake hands with me. The committee formed a circle around me, conducting me through a back door, where the car was waiting. Away we sped through the old-fashioned streets of Tours into the unlighted country, and never stopped till we reached Rheims.

"That city is one tremendous heap of ruins, with here and there some mean, low, narrow shanty rebuilt on the site of former palaces once surrounding the fine Cathedral, which, despite all assertions to the contrary, is rather well preserved. The country around Rheims has recovered quickly from the wounds of the war and is again the land where the champagne flows, which perhaps accounts for the fact that nobody discovered the German communist, although she stayed fully twenty-four hours.

"In reaching home by way of Luxemburg I used the same methods, which I must not reveal for the reasons I told.

"And now," continued Frau Zetkin, "will you tell the Americans that France, even should she regain much of her old beauty, is not half so fine a country as Bolshevist Young Russia, where nobody cares what one wears and children are no trouble because the State is playing nurse?"

Harding's Message Welcomed In England

London Observer Remarks That America's Deeds Answer Talk Of Isolation

London, Jan. 22.—Discussing President-elect Harding's letter to the Sulgrave Institute. The Sunday Observer says:

"It cordiality toward this country is expressed with an emphasis and explicitness which must be measured by the writer's approaching responsibilities. Mr. Harding is the very last man to be casual or impulsive upon the threshold of his great office. The more closely his words are studied the more impressive is the deliberation behind their force." It goes on:

"Unity of the English-speaking peoples" is as strong a phrase as ever crossed the Atlantic from the steps of the White House. It is a facer for various crusades that we need not more particularly specific and it is pregnant with the highest encouragement for men of good will everywhere in their efforts to lay a deeper foundation for the world's peace."

Declaring that "America has all along been repudiating in very practiced fashion these formularies of isolation which have been recited in his political tabernacle."

The Observer quotes Admiral Niblack's account of the work of the United States Navy in European waters, and remarks. "For all the language that has sometimes sounded priestly and Levitical, America has all the time been playing the good samaritan by stealth, because, like ourselves, she cannot resist the claim of the weak upon the strong. The impulse to help is there, that impulse which makes 'the English speaking peoples,' as Mr. Harding puts it, 'the instrument through which civilisation has been flung to the four corners of the globe.'"

There are no springs to break. 12. The design of the escapement reduces friction to the minimum. 13. The clock itself is its own driving power. 14. It shows at a glance when it needs winding. 15. The driving force is constant. 16. The design lends itself to new varieties of artistic treatment. 17. It requires no oil. 18. An extraordinary reduction of strain on working parts, giving long life.

OUR correspondent and stockholding bank in San Francisco has a history which goes back to the pioneer days of California. It is the successor of two old English banks, the Anglo-California and the London, Paris and American Bank, both pioneers in the exchange banking field. The Anglo and London Paris National Bank, successor to the two older banks, took a leading position on the West Coast and now enjoys the distinction of being the largest national bank in point of deposits in any city west of Chicago and St. Louis.

This is one of the nine great American banks which are stockholders in the Asia Banking Corporation.

Some Inkstand

A man was called upon to testify in a lawsuit as to the number of cubic yards handled in some rock-removing in the vicinity. He showed little knowledge of the matter, his idea of a cubic yard being so indefinite that it was suspected he hardly comprhended the term.

In order to facilitate his understanding the Judge said: "Listen, witness! Assume this inkstand to be three feet across the top this way and three feet that way and three feet in height. How would you describe it?"

"Well, your honor," said the witness, without hesitation. "I should say it was some inkstand."

Wanted: One Psychologist

DOES Shanghai boast a psychologist? If so, let him come forward now or forever after hide his accomplishment from an all too cynical city. It will be well, indeed, for him to reveal himself at once, for if he hangs back bashfully or from just pure laziness, the Civic League of some other lively local organisation is sure to find him out and ruthlessly expose him to public odium.

For all we need now, in order to put the newly drawn up Social Welfare Scheme of Mrs. Neville-Rolfe in effect, is one psychologist. We already have the rest of the personnel called for. We have for instance the Biologist, the Four Keen Parents, the American Woman's Club, the Race Club, the British Women's Organisation, the Coastal Officers' Union, the Marine Engineers' Club, the Business Woman, A Medical Man, A Head Mistress of A High School, A Head Master, The Chambers of Commerce, The Customs Service, The Shipping Interest, The Recreation Fund Trustees, Four Leading Social Men and Women, the Gills' Friendly Society, One Representative of The Banking Corporation, One Chinese Medical Missionary, The Hanbury Institute, The Municipal Health Department and the Moral Welfare Committee.

And as a chain is only as strong as its weakest link (we don't know exactly how this comes in, but perhaps the psychologist will fall into our trap and by telling us why we thought of that ancient saw, reveal himself—)—as we were saying, all we need now is One Psychologist.

Mr. J. W. Crofoot, Chairman of the Publicity Committee of the Moral Welfare Committee has forwarded to us the draft of the scheme. In a covering note he says:

"The visit of the Eastern Commission of the National Council for Combatting Venereal Diseases to Shanghai created no little interest in the subject of the social life of this city, and it seems to the Moral Welfare Committee that a movement wider than that which has been undertaken by the present committee is very desirable. We are therefore sending a copy of Mrs. Neville-Rolfe's scheme to you in the hope that you will use your influence to forward some such plan."

And so now, with only one psychologist to hear from, we present the scheme in its entirety and commend it notwithstanding any seeming levity, to the earnest attention of the Civic League and other organisations working to make Shanghai a better and cleaner city:

During the recent public health campaign the close relationship that exists between social welfare and public health seemed to be clearly recognised. It was agreed that if a community is to be kept healthy it should be congenially occupied. The struggle for existence makes it necessary that the working hours of the self-supporting men and women should be filled—and this is the case—but a corresponding necessity for congenial recreation for the leisure hours and comfortable housing conditions has not yet been met.

Yet there are many women of leisure and men of means in Shanghai, and an ample allowance of intelligence and ability. Could not the available forces be mobilised and directed into channels of social service which would inevitably react favorably on the health and happiness of both this and future generations?

It would require some effort of organisation, the voluntary services in their leisure hours of a score or so of men and women for the needs of Shanghai to be met.

The directing body would make known to the public what fresh developments were necessary, and where increased support for existing organisations was desirable.

The interest and enthusiasm aroused should find practical expression without delay. One would therefore like to suggest that in the near future a conference should be convened of the representatives of all responsible groups and interests in Shanghai to consider the co-ordination of existing, and the development of fresh activities through the formation of some kind of Social Service Association. The commercial, banking, shipping, seafaring, and business men and women's interests would be primarily concerned. The governing authorities could not fail to look benevolently on a determined effort to improve local conditions while the existing charitable and educational activities would take a share in defining the policy of such an association.

In response to a request received to put forward an outline of such an organisation as is suggested I append the following notes.

A Social Service Association would co-ordinate and stimulate:

(1) Recreation for all groups in the Settlement.

(2) Living accommodation for business men and women and mercantile marine officers and men.

(3) Interest in educational questions.

(4) Interest in public health questions.

(5) Law enforcement and protective work and such other activities as experience might prove necessary.

Shanghai Social Service Association, or Guild, or League.

Such an organisation would need to be based on wide interests, and therefore should have a large and representative General Council composed of elected representatives of all the interests and organisations concerned. Such a Council would have power to co-opt to its own body and to elect a small Executive Committee.

The Executive would appoint sub-committees to undertake the different sections of the work:

(a) Recreation Committee,
Terms of Reference:
(1) To classify existing recreational facilities and ascertain which groups in the community are sufficiently provided for. (Special attention being given to officers and men of the mercantile marine, business women and girls, and the junior members of the banking and commercial firms.)

OUR DEAD IN FRANCE

The Mother of Joyce Kilmer Found Graves Well Cared For

Mrs. Annie K. Kilmer, mother of Joyce Kilmer, the American poet who was killed in France, writing to The New York Herald says: I wish to express my hearty approval of the letter from H. G. Dunn urging the bereaved in this country to allow their glorious dead to lie where they are so tenderly cared for by France.

My son, Sergeant Joyce Kilmer, lies in the little cemetery of Fere-en-Tardenois, about nine miles from Chateau Thierry. His father and I visited his dear grave last September and as I looked at the carefully tended graves of our own, kept in such beautiful condition by the grateful and chivalrous French people, the words of one of my son's last poems, published in Scribner's Magazine only a few days before I received the announcement of his glorious death, rose to my mind.

The poem was "Rouge Bouquet," and tells of the bursting of a German shell which buried alive many of the gallant soldiers of Joyce's regiment, the 165th. These are the words which no doubt expressed the feeling of many of our boys as they did his:

There is on earth no worthier grave
To hold the bodies of the brave
Than this place of pain and pride.
Where they nobly fought and nobly died.

Let us leave them with France! She knows them, every one, loves, appreciates and cares for them as no other nation in the world could do!

The Perils Of Bachelorhood

BY DAMON RUNYON

If a man desires to live a long time, the first thing he should do is to get married. A married man lives much longer than a bachelor.

You do not need any figures to prove what I say. Look about you, run over the list of your acquaintances who have departed this life, and you will see that it is true. The reason is quite simple.

A bachelor lives at a much higher rate of speed than a married man, and pays less attention to his living. He drives along haphazard, with no schedule and few stops.

A married man must slow down at once and take care where he is going, and how. Marriage is no wild, cross-country charge, taking the ditches and the fences as they come. It is a circuitous route, with much studying of the road ahead to pick the smoother paths.

The craziest automobile driver I have ever known got married not long ago. He used to take the corners on one wheel when he was a bachelor, and it was always a good even money bet that the snow wouldn't fall on his back, but I notice that he now drives with extreme caution.

A married man must map out a regular schedule and stick to it. From this comes the regular hours, foreign to the bachelor, who has no set program in life, barring the demands of business. And the bachelor generally adjusts his business as soon as possible to fit in with the irregular outline of his existence.

A bachelor generally eats around restaurants and boarding houses, and with all due respect to the cuisine of these establishments, the food is not always what it should be to keep the furnace of life well stoked up. Furthermore, a bachelor often eats without regard to the time for meals.

The married man gets the best food his purse affords, and his wife sees that it is well prepared, assuming that she is the normal American wife. He gets it at a certain hour, which is important.

The married man forms the habit of going to bed early and getting up early. The bachelor, in eight cases out of ten, is a night hawk. If he is a man who has to work for a living, reporting at a set hour in the morning, he goes through at least ten years of his life constantly needing sleep.

A bachelor never gets fully caught up on sleep, unless he is an exceptionally methodical man, which bachelors rarely are. Thus his vitality is generally at lower ebb than that of the married man.

When a man gets sick, his wife puts him to bed and nurses him with loving care. When a bachelor gets sick he goes around combating his illness until it brings him flat on his back, and often with a start on him that the doctors cannot overcome.

A married man is more afraid of illness than a bachelor, because with his responsibilities of wife and children, he realises the handicap of being laid up even for a short time. So he quickly complains, and receives attention, while a bachelor declines to acknowledge illness as long as possible.

This is largely because a bachelor hates the idea of taking to his bed in his lonely apartments. He misses the companionships of his accustomed haunts. A married man's haunts being his home, he has his companionships at all times, sick or well.

Incidentally, a bachelor is more exposed to sickness than a married man, because he goes to places where a married man infrequently visits. The bachelor has a high contempt for the most ordinary illness, which a wife is constantly impressing on her husband—rubbers, warm wraps and the like.

A doctor once told me that the mortality of bachelors from the ages of thirty to forty-five is 25 percent: of married men of the same age 18 percent. For forty-one bachelors who attain the age of forty there are seventy-eight married men, and the difference, he said, is more striking as age advances.

At the age of sixty there are but twenty-two bachelors alive for forty-eight married men; at seventy years; eleven bachelors for twenty-seven married men, and at eighty years, for three bachelors there are nine married men.

I was citing these facts and figures to an old bachelor friend of mine last night, and he said:

"Well, maybe you're right at that, but I've come to the conclusion that I'd rather be dead than married."

Missing Five-Franc Piece

Among the coins Napoleon minted were some millions of five-franc pieces, and he determined to popularise these in an extraordinary way. In one of these coins, folded to a tiny size, was inclosed a note signed by Napoleon, and promising the sum of 5,000,000 francs (about $1,000,000) to the finder of that particular coin. Naturally, everybody who changed a large piece demanded the new five-franc coins in exchange and, as a rule, probed and dug and sounded the metal in eager search for the hidden note. But the years went on, and so far the note has never appeared.

Garrett P. Serviss's Article

No Method Now Known Of Hardening Copper Like Steel, And Report That Ancients Had Such Process Probably Untrue

BY GARRETT P. SERVISS

(Noted astronomer and writer on subjects of popular scientific interest.

"Has copper ever been hardened where it could be used as steel, or any of the hard metals are used? If not, why cannot it be hardened? If it was hardened could it be used for the purposes for which steel is used?—J. B. P.

I can only tell you that the statement has often been repeated that "the ancients," meaning especially the early Greeks and the Egyptians, had a process, or processes, of hardening and tempering copper, whereby they were able to make from it knives and razors having edges "of the utmost keenness." This knowledge of the ancients, if it ever really existed to the degree alleged, no longer exists. It is perhaps the most celebrated of the "lost arts."

Very likely the story is exaggerated. It would be possible, I presume, to take a strip of copper so thin and sharp on the edge that it would cut the skin, but it would not for that reason be fit for the blade of a knife or even of a razor. If there was both in Greece and Egypt knowledge of how to harden copper very much as steel is hardened now, it almost certainly would not have been so completely lost that no hint of its nature can now be obtained. A strong reason for distrusting the legend is the doubted fact that in the same countries where the art of hardening and tempering copper is said once to have been known and practised, recourse was had for making tools and cutting implements to an alloy of copper, that which we call bronze, made by mixing a little tin with the copper, about one part in nine.

THE BRONZE AGE

This alloy came into such universal use that it has given its name to an entire age of human history—the "Bronze Age." Mark that there was never a "copper age," and while it is probable that copper alone may have been employed, as best it could, for tools and weapons before the art of blending a little tin with it was discovered, it is inconceivable that the metal thus used could have been developed into what might fairly be called a rival of steel of our day, only to be subsequently abandoned for so decidedly inferior a substitute as bronze.

If they could harden copper as perfectly as the story says they could, so that it would cut like steel when used for knives and razors, why should they have abandoned it for such a material as bronze which, at its best, cannot be compared with steel, and which itself was discarded for iron as soon as the art of smelting the latter was developed?

As to the art of hardening copper having been "lost" among people so continuously occupied in bettering their metallic tools and weapons as the old Mediteranean and Eastern Asiatic peoples were, the thing is most improbable on its face.

Then, consider again that the Bronze Age was succeeded by the Iron Age, just as it had been preceded by the Stone Age. Here we see a steady progress in one continuous direction, viz., toward a betterment of the metal used for implements and weapons. Iron was recognised as being superior to bronze, although the change from one to the other was gradual, and did not become rapid until the refined form of iron called steel had been developed.

After that bronze sank back into the place of a metal useful for making art objects, ornaments, statues, etc., the hard keen-edged steel crowding it out of the field that it had at first occupied. These are the three ages of human progress as denoted by man's increasing knowledge of and command over metals—Stone, Bronze, Iron.

A MERE ILLUSION

If there had been a copper age it would have come between the Stone and the Bronze, for unquestionable historic records show that nothing of that kind succeeded the Bronze Age, and if the copper tools and weapons developed in primitive times had been anything like as excellent as legend represents them to have been, men must have been foolish enough to throw them aside not for better, but for poorer ones, which is inconceivable.

It would appear, then, that copper never has been hardened in the sense that iron is hardened into steel, but that, on the contrary while it no doubt may have been the first of the metals to be put to use, because of the ease with which it could be manipulated, yet it held its place only as long as something better had not turned up, and that something better did turn up when some primitive Tubal Cain found out that by mixing tin with his copper he could obtain a metal harder and more capable of being shaped into blades than was the soft, yielding red metal.

The reason why copper cannot be hardened like iron depends upon its molecular constitution, and its chemical affinities. It is through the addition of carbon that iron is rendered capable of transformation into steel. A similar process cannot be used with copper.

And, while, of course, anything may happen in a world which is yet full of mysteries for its inhabitants, yet the probability is strong that copper never will be hardened so as to be used for the purposes of steel. I suspect that the Iron Age is the last that will bear the name of a metal. We are beginning to call this the Electric Age and here we enter a new realm—perchance less densely material more dazzlingly spiritual.

Discourses Of A Scientist

BY EDGAR LUCIEN LARKIN

(Director of Mt. Lowe Observatory)

A sun, commonly called a star, is a giant mass of matter in a state of such intense electronic, atomic and molecular activity that energy radiates away in all directions in frigid space. When this energy hits matter so as to oscillate it at a certain rate, heat appears. If it hits nerve filaments in retinas of the eyes, we have a still more wonderful effect—light. Nobody knows how this energy is communicated through the optic nerve to the optic thalamaus in the brain.

A cluster of suns is an aggregate of hundreds, thousands or millions, where they seem to be neighbors, nearer to each other than in space around about. If there are a few hundred suns they all can be seen and also photographed separately, the blackness of infinite space showing between them. Such a cluster may be somewhat in the form of a disk, whose diameter is much greater than its thickness, like a grindstone. But if the congeries of suns are arranged as a sphere or globe, several suns could be in a straight line drawn from the lenses of the telescope and tele-camera; then only the first one in the row would be photographed.

Now suppose that there are many lines of these suns extending directly behind the first one, so close that the waves of energy of light merge somewhat. Thus the effect of space between is lost and a blur is spread over all the central regions of the cluster. There may be thousands of millions of suns thus arranged, for they cannot be counted. But sparsely settled clusters show images of each sun on plates and they can be counted. The Pleiades cluster is an example. They can be seen separately even in an opera-glass. But in the 100-inch mirror telescope, on Mt. Wilson, a number of images are photographed that are much nearer to each other, so minute that smaller telescopes cannot reveal them.

Another sparsely settled neighborhood is named the Bee-Hive. It is in the zodiacal constellation Cancer, and not far from the plane of the earth's orbit imagined to be expanded forever. It is just visible to the unaided eye as a pearl-colored patch in the blackness of cosmic space. The cluster in Perseus is a congeries of suns more numerous than in the Bee-Hive. Recently I secured a fine observation of the magnificent cluster in Sagittarius. This is one of the finest, and near the center. Estimates up to 50,000 suns have been made of this stupendous cluster.

But all who have ever seen the immense cluster in the constellation Hercules in a large telescope agree that it cannot be described in words. No lens can separate the minute points, each the image of a huge sun. The central images are merged, but near the edges they can all be counted. All kinds of estimates have been made of the probable number from 50,000 to 200,000. A startling effect of blackness surrounds this superb congeries of suns. A comparatively bare region encircles the gigantic cluster, as if suns had been drawn away and massed in the central region.

A new sun suddenly appeared in the nebulous cluster 80 M. Scorpii, on May 28, 1860, and vanished on June 10. This sun may have burst forth in the cluster itself or far this side of it in the straight line of sight.

Upon coming to Lowe Observatory I was able to see in the distant southern horizon the magnificent cluster of suns named Omega Centauri. This exquisitely beautiful object could not be seen from my former observatory in Illinois. To behold this one object is worth a move from Illinois to California.

Go put a jet black velvet cloth on a table top; pour upon it 50,000 or 100,000 pure diamonds; darken the room, and then turn on a number of tungsten filament electric incandescent lamps. This would give some idea of the superial beauty of this Southern cluster of glowing, flashing, blazing suns. It is in this constellation, the Centaur, that glows the nearest neighboring sun to our own. It is named Alpha Centauri, and its distance is known to be twenty-five and one-half trillion miles. The cluster is much farther away, how far, cannot be determined, for the base line used to form an angle, the diameter of the earth's orbit, 186,000,000 miles, as seen by an observer at the cluster, looking back this way, would be almost nothing.

Picturesque Street Names

The practice of giving numbers and letters instead of names to the streets and avenues is so familiar in America that it excites no thought. Historical dates have been called picturesque names for streets. The French set the fashion in this respect. Paris has its Rue du 29 Juillet and its Rue du September. This fad has spread even to South America Buenos Aires has its Parque 3 du Febrerro, its July Promenade, its 16th of November square, and also its May 25th street. In connection with the Armistice Day fetes in Paris this year a number of municipal councillors intend to lay before the Paris Municipal Council a proposal that the name of November 11 should be given to one of the streets of Paris.

A Certain Cure

A woman went to her doctor, complained to him of her husband breaking out into violent tempers and asked if he could recommend a cure.

"The remedy," replied the doctor, "is simple. I have here an excellent water which I give to most of my patients who suffer from the same complaint. Should your husband become violent again you need only take half a cupful of the water in your mouth and hold it there for a few minutes; the warmer the water becomes in the mouth the more visibly will your husband's wrath melt away. Repeat the dose in very severe cases."

The water was ordinary well water. The result was domestic happiness.

CALMETTE MAKES TUBERCULAR GAIN

French Scientist Says That By Cultivating Bacilli In Bile They Lose Power Of Infection

Paris, Jan. 21.—For the last year the Pasteur Institute has been making important experiments toward the perfection of a vaccine against tuberculosis. Professor Calmette of the institute reviewed today for The New York Times the results of the work up to the present.

"It must not be supposed that we already have a means of shielding humanity against tuberculosis," he said. "We have not got that far. Long and laborious experiments are still necessary. Those I have been able to make so far have been neither numerous enough nor carried on long enough. At present here is what I can say:

"It is possible by cultivating the Koch bacillus in certain nutritive media to modify its character and virulence. This bacillus cultivated in successive series on glycerine media containing bile, although it goes on living and is capable of reproduction, loses the property of infecting man or beast with tuberculosis.

"Inoculation of cultures of these bacilli into organs is harmless. It realises bacillary infection, but does not produce tuberculosis. Thus tuberculosis infection, nonvirulent and harmless, develops in the organism a particular state of resistance to subsequent virulent infection whether due to artificial inoculation or prolonged association with tuberculous animals.

"In other words in our test on animals, more particularly in young bovines, virulent tuberculous bacilli are tolerated or thrown out without producing tubercular lesions.

"This bacillus cultivated on a bile medium behaves then like a true vaccine. A single inoculation is sufficient to give immunity for a year at least.

"That is where the matter stands today.

"It is easy to understand these facts, already most interesting, and that they mark a very important progress along the road to anti-tubercular vaccination."

In order that new progress leading to human vaccination may be realised Professor Calmette thinks it indispensable to undertake experiments on big anthropoid apes, such as chimpanzee, whose extreme susceptibility to tuberculosis is well known. But these experiments can only be carried out in the native country of these apes in a climate which allows them to be kept a long time in semiliberty. He thinks of creating a special laboratory in French Guinea. The Governor General of French West Africa has offered the Pasteur Institute a subvention, but full resources have not yet been realised to organise and maintain permanent scientific missions which will have to conduct experiments on the spot.

MORRIS DEFINES JAPAN'S PLAINTS

They Object To Being Singled Out Among All Aliens In Deprivation Of Rights

NOT IMMIGRATION ISSUE

Discriminatory Property Laws The Tender Point—Lamont Approves Consortium

New York, Jan. 23.—Questions that have arisen in the Far East were discussed yesterday at a luncheon at the University Club, Fifth Avenue and Fifty-fourth Street. Japanese-American relations, especially in the light of developments on the Pacific Coast, were defined by Roland S. Morris, American Ambassador to Tokio and Thomas W. Lamont, banker, spoke on "The New China."

"No one can live for any length of time in the Far East," said Ambassador Morris, "and not be profoundly affected by the thought and spirit of Oriental life, which contains within it such a wealth of human experience and achievement. There is a maturity about Eastern thought, and a feeling of the past, which gives to the present a temporary and fleeting character, which contrasts strangely with the character of permanence which we attribute to our particular generation. Men of the Orient think in centuries, while we think in decades. They see events in a larger perspective and are therefore less impatient in seeking results. They are tolerant of temporary setbacks; of momentary reactions."

Mr. Morris then went into the recent associations between East and West, and the nature of the American relations with Japan. He touched briefly on the international banking consortium, and alluded to the promise of help which it offered in the development of China. From this phase he went to the so-called Japanese issue in California, "not with the object of discussing its merits, but simply to define the question."

NATURALISATION NOT ISSUE

"Japanese aliens," he said, "resident in the United States are not eligible to citizenship, our naturalisation laws having been interpreted as applying only to white persons or persons of African descent. This is in a sense a discrimination, or, perhaps better, a selection of those whom for one reason or another we are willing to admit to the privilege of American citizenship. But it is clearly not a discrimination of a character which could properly be the subject of complaint by a Government whose nationals might be excluded. No Government would consider it proper or expedient to protest because its citizens were not permitted to expatriate themselves. A friendly State might regret and deplore such a policy, and even hope that some day it would be changed, but it would undoubtedly claim for itself and concede to other States the inherent right of a sovereign State to determine the conditions and limits of naturalisation.

"May I ask you, therefore, to note carefully this point: The Japanese Government is not complaining because Japanese aliens resident in the United States are ineligible to American citizenship.

"Nor is the Government of Japan asking for its citizens resident among us any greater rights than those conceded to other aliens. It accepts and in its own domestic legislation has often acted upon the principle that any State has the right to impose reasonable restrictions upon the property rights of foreigners who chose to live or pursue their occupations within its borders.

"May I ask you, therefore, to note in the second place that the Government of Japan is not in any way questioning the right of our Government to pass, subject only to its treaty obligations, any legislation it may see fit covering the admission or residence of foreigners among us. It is true that by the treaty of 1911 Japanese were granted full rights of admission to and residence in our country. But this right was granted only upon the express understanding that the Japanese Government would continue voluntarily to limit emigration as provided in the so-called 'Gentlemen's Agreement' of 1908.

IMMIGRATION NO GRIEVANCE

"In the third place, therefore, may I ask you to note that the Japanese Government and people are not clamoring for the removal of any of the present restrictions on Japanese immigration? On the contrary, the Government has shown a willingness to examine and correct any of the defects and abuses of the existing arrangement.

"What, then, is this much talked of 'California issue'? Of what does Japan complain? Let me try to answer those questions. As I have already stated, Japanese aliens are ineligible to citizenship under the administrative interpretation of our naturalisation laws. But personal and property rights they have shared equally with other aliens.

"In 1913, however, California devised the plan of classifying aliens on the basis of their eligibility to citizenship and then proceeded to deprive those who were ineligible of certain property rights previously enjoyed by all aliens. In 1920 this legislation was amplified by an initative and referendum act. Other States are now seriously considering similar legislation, and the people of Japan are fearful lest this method may be used not only in property rights but also in personal rights.

PROTEST DISCRIMINATION

"It is against this method that the Government and people of Japan are most vigorously and earnestly protesting. They contend that it is unjust and unfair to pick out a particular group of aliens who are under certain political disabilities and deprive them of rights which all other aliens are permitted to enjoy. And the Japanese protest presents to all our people this very definite question: In the larger view of our relation with the Orient is it wise thus to classify aliens on the basis of their eligibility to citizenship?

"It is not for me to answer this question. The answer must be made by the American people speaking through the recognised organs of their Government. But it is important that we should keep clearly before us just what the issue is so that we may more intelligently determine it in the light of the facts and arguments which are being submitted to us."

Mr. Lamont, in outlining the progress of the future China, spoke of the international consortium organised to relieve the country. He saw much good resulting from the consortium and compared it to "a little League of nations," maintaining mutual understanding in Asia.

Mr. Lamont emphasised the friendship which China held for the Americans, a feeling founded on our return of the Boxer indemnity and fostered by American-educated Chinamen returning to their native land.

HOW THE GERMANS STARTED LENIN

Delivered To Him More Than 50,000,000 Marks To Upset Russia

Berlin, Jan. 14.—The German Government, or at least the men who decided Germany's fate in 1917, never denied, and at once time even bragged of having shipped Lenin and some of his Bolshevist adherents in a sealed railway car through Germany across the border into Russia and of having thus introduced into Russia's body the poison that is slowly killing her now. But they have always staunchly denied the accusation contained in a pamphlet published in Washington at the end of 1918 on the beginning of 1919, to the effect that the German Government supplied Lenin with 80,000,000 gold roubles. Now Edward Bernstein, the well-known Socialist leader, makes the statement he has discovered facts which do not tally exactly with the American story so far as the sum mentioned and some other details are concerned.

According to Bernstein, the father of the whole idea seems to have been General Ulrich and von Hoffman, now an enraged enemy of Bolshevism, whose plans for fighting his former protege Lenin, have been recently discussed in the press of the world. Ludendorff and Helfferich shared in the conspiracy, and the latter secured the funds with which the Bolshevist revolution was financed.

Bernstein has reliable information from persons then in close touch with the German National Treasury that the sum granted to Lenin amounted to somewhat more than 50,000,000 gold marks, not rubles, and was supplied mainly in coin. Before affixing the seal to Lenin's saloon car, General von Hoffmann, who had personally gone for that purpose to Switzerland, placed several heavy bags filled with thousands of golden Wilhelms, showing the Kaiser in his glory as a war lord, in the hands of the agitator, who until that time had never disposed of more than a few hundred rubles. These golden Wilhelms were well known then across the German-Russian border and were as much coveted by Russians as their own ten-ruble pieces.

Another instalment, also in gold, was paid to Lenin by the Imperial German Government through Banker Furstenberg act Stockholm, and the last part of the 50,000,000 marks was paid to Lenin's right hand man and State Secretary, Menshikoff. This last instalment came directly from the German Imperial Bank in Berlin and was consigned by one of its highest officials.

Bernstein doubts that ex-State Secretary von Kuelmann played any part in this deal with Lenin, but called The New York Times correspondent's attention to General von Hoffmann's attitude at Brest Litovsk, how he successfully bullied Trotzk and Radek while the German and Austrian diplomats failed obviously because they were unaware what Lenin and his friends owed to the Hoffmann-Helfferich-Ludenorff triumvirate.

There is a story current here, according to which Wilhelm II., before consenting to von Hoffman's plan, gave an order that a promise should be exacted from Lenin that he would in no circumstances permit the Czar or any member of the imperial Russian family to be killed. Lenin gave the desired promise, and the energy which he afterward displayed in prosecuting the murderers is regarded as proof that he intended to keep it. Bernstein could not confirm this part of the story, but he promised further revelations connected with the financing of the Bolshevist revolution.
